New Issue Notes

by Andrew Dolphin

New Zealand in Space 21.01.2018 (25 January 2018)

On Sunday 21 January 2018 New Zealand became the eleventh country in the world to launch a rocket into orbit. And a speedy four days later New Zealand Post produced a sheetlet commemorating this momentous achievement.

The rocket "Electron" was launched by the Kiwi company Rocket Lab from Launch Complex 1, Mahia Peninsula, Hawkes Bay. Rocket Lab was founded by New Zealander Peter Beck, and Launch Complex 1 is the first orbital launch site in New Zealand and the first privately operated orbital launch site in the world. 'Electron' can carry payloads of up to 225kg into LEO (Low Earth Orbit).

The sheetlet of six stamps features six photographs taken of 'Electron's' journey into orbit, against an impressive impression of the launch itself.

Designs:

- $1.00 'Electron' pre-launch horizontally in its cradle
- $2.00 Rocket Lab's Launch Complex 1
- $2.20 the 'Humanity Star' (more on this later)
- $2.70 Mahia Peninsula
- $3.00 "Lift Off!!"
- $3.30 planet Earth from orbit.

The 'Humanity Star' on the $2.20 stamp is an interesting object: it is a glittering geodesic sphere of silver triangular panels – "a beach-ball, a moon, a space-age sculpture, its round shape friendly and reassuring." In nine months or so the 'Humanity Star' will reenter Earth's atmosphere to be consumed: it will leave no trace of its passage through orbit.

Until then Peter Beck says, "My hope is that everyone looking up at the 'Humanity Star' will look past it to the expanse of the universe, feel a connection to our place in it and think a little differently about their lives, actions and what is important".

Stamps designed by Saint Andrew Matautia, New Zealand Post, Wellington; sheetlet background designed by Sam Taylor, Napier. Printed by Collectables and Solutions Centre, New Zealand Post, Whanganui in the four process colours on Tullis Russell 104gsm red-phosphor gummed stamp-paper, perf 13½. Sheetlet of six stamps.
